MEET THE SPEAKERS

Join three SRCD members who have created or host their own podcasts to learn more about this popular way to communicate and translate research to a broad audience.

Presenters include:

Dr. Lorena Aceves:

- Podcast: Vida de PhD
 - Focused on being brown in a non-academic world.

Dr. Isha W. Metzger:

- Podcast: Black & EMPOWERED
 - Highlights Black excellence, talks about the science of physical, mental, and behavioral health, and interviews experts in the field of racial trauma and racial socialization.

Dr. Valerie Adams-Bass, co-host with Dr. Sheretta Butler-Barnes:

- Podcast: Raising Joyful and Resilient Black Children
 - Conversations with experts and parents to explore what it means to raise healthy and thriving Black children, bridge conversations from parenting to child wellbeing and social justice and provide research-based resources and tools for parents.

Participants will learn the impetus behind creating these podcasts; what it is really like behind the scenes; lessons learned from creating, producing, hosting, and marketing a podcast; and advice for other developmental scientists who have been thinking of creating or hosting their own podcast.
