

University-Based Child & Family Policy Consortium

The University-Based Child and Family Policy Consortium seeks to inform social policy that optimizes child and family wellbeing.

In August 2024, members and leaders of the University-Based Child and Family Policy Consortium voted to close the Consortium, citing declining membership and interest. Consortium materials are no longer available, following this decision. If you have any questions, please contact the Society for Research in Child Development, which was the fiscal host of the Consortium in recent years policy@srcd.org.